

WHERE THERE'S A WILL,
THERE'S A GETAWAY

We're pretty sure you're not going to believe how much amazing we manage to squeeze into that little panhandle at the top of Idaho—and how much amazing you're going to have when you start looking, hiking, floating, and skiing around. Let's start with the water. There's a lot. Mountain lakes framed by jagged crests and historic Western downtowns; big, meandering full-of-trout rivers; and lazy streams where moose slurp mossy grasses. You'll find most of the water-based resorts and recreation near our big three lakes: Coeur d'Alene, Pend Oreille, and Priest. Head to Coeur d'Alene for nonstop swimming and boating, shopping, and golfing; to Sandpoint for a low-key art and outdoors scene; or to the Priest Lake area for a more pristine experience. Explore North Idaho's colorful past—the Coeur d'Alene Tribe, miners, loggers, and even Jesuit missionaries all have tales to tell, and they'll unfold in places like Wallace, where every building is on the National Register. What else will you find here? Eight state parks, six scenic byways, three signature biking trails, and three amazing ski areas—that's big adventure no matter the season.

BONNERS FERRY

Bonnors Ferry is about as “north Idaho” as it gets. Just a few miles from the Canadian border, this little town sprang up around a river crossing for gold prospectors in the late 1800s. It’s nestled between three mountain ranges, the sweeping Kootenai River runs through downtown, and the surrounding valley is a swath of farmland so pretty you’ll wish you knew how to grow something just so you can live here. Downtown still has that authentic Western feel, evergreens and foothills backing up to quaint shops, an art gallery, and a pub that brews with locally grown hops. Also downtown is the Kootenai River Inn Casino; the Kootenai Tribe runs this spot, as well as a sturgeon hatchery just west of town. If you’re here to be outside, get to it! There’s plenty to do and see—300 miles of trails, moose-spotting at the Kootenai National Wildlife Refuge, scenic views along the International Selkirk Loop, and waterfalls tumbling just about everywhere.

PRIEST RIVER/PRIEST LAKE

Priest River’s roots lie in logging, a heritage the town celebrates at the Timber Education Center on Main Street and each July with Timber Days (how’s your ax-throwing aim?). The main commercial area, the Beardmore Block, has been restored recently, and residents are working to bring the historic Rex Theater back to life as a performing arts center. Take it all in, and chat with the locals while you nosh and grab coffee or something a bit more bubbly at the Beardmore Bistro & Wine Bar. Many of the locals share their paddling passion each September, when they host teams from around the West for a rowing regatta along Priest River. Venture just north on Highway 57 to the pristine Priest Lake resort area, where adventurers play—and stay—year-round. Come see winter’s hardest competitors in action at the Priest Lake Sled Dog Race each February.

SANDPOINT

Top 10 Dream Town, Idaho's Hippest Mountain Town, #1 Ski Town—just a few names Sandpoint's been called lately by the likes of Sunset Magazine, Men's Journal, and Rand McNally. This small town's got something special; for starters, it's perched right on the shores of Lake Pend Oreille, with mountains and forests in literally every direction. Then there's Main Street, one of Idaho's most picturesque historic districts, with eclectic art galleries, boutiques, and eateries—plus a farmer's market and art walks all summer long. Be sure to try the fresh seafood at the Trinity at City Beach, which also serves up a sparkling view of the lake. Of course, if you're in Sandpoint, you're here to be outside—urban and off-road cycling; angling for Lake Pend Oreille's giant Kamloops; boating and swimming; and camping or otherwise “roughing it” at a lakeside lodge. In winter, head to the powdery hills at Schweitzer Mountain, 2,900 acres of wide-open space for skiing, tubing, snowshoeing, and snowmobiling.

COEUR D'ALENE

Summer days in Coeur d'Alene are fresh, shimmering, happy. Spending time in this small city, on the shores of one of the country's prettiest lakes, means waterskiing and building sandcastles, roaming in and out of art galleries, and sipping wine at sunset. Lake Coeur d'Alene is the major draw, with almost 110 miles of shoreline and crystal blue waters perfect for swimming, sailing, jet-skiing, and relaxed cruising tours. Soak it all in from above with a parasailing adventure or sea plane tour. You'll catch amazing views and see osprey diving for their dinner when you hike Tubbs Hill peninsula or pedal along the Coeur d'Alene Parkway State Park.

Treat the kids to a day of riding, splashing, and screaming with pure joy at Silverwood Theme Park and Boulder Beach Water Park, just a few miles north. Coeur d'Alene winters are known for prime powder, so find your bliss at any of the three nearby resorts—Schweitzer Mountain, Silver Mountain and Lookout Pass. Bring the family to see the Coeur d'Alene Holiday Light Show, a wonderland of over 1.5 million lights and the largest on-the-water holiday light display in America.

If you're here for a special occasion, make a reservation at Beverly's in the Coeur d'Alene Resort, known for its fresh seasonal cuisine and large selection of Northwest wines. Locals will point you to Hudson's Hamburgers, a longtime fixture here, for a truly old-fashioned burger.

POST FALLS

Often called “Idaho's River City,” Post Falls gets its real name from Frederick Post, who secured a treaty with the Coeur d'Alene Tribe to build a sawmill on the banks of the Spokane River. A pictograph memorializing the purchase is carved into a granite cliff in Treaty Rock Park. There's sun and fun at Q'emiln Park, with a beach and boat launch, trails offering rocky river views, and numerous climbing and bouldering spots. Meander over to Templin's Resort Marina for barbecues and beach volleyball, or take a brunch or evening cruise on the River Queen. Post Falls is just 10 minutes from Coeur d'Alene, so it's an easy day trip destination or a convenient home base for all of your adventures.

SILVER VALLEY/WALLACE/ KELLOGG

Wallace hit it big in 1882, when gold and silver were found in this tiny mountain town. Silver Valley became the world's largest silver mining region, and today balances its mining operations with world-class recreation and tourism. (The entire town of Wallace is on the National Register of Historic Places.) Explore the area's industrious past at the Northern Pacific Depot Railroad Museum, the Wallace District Mining Museum, and the Shoshone County Mining & Smelting Museum in Kellogg—then head underground for guided tours of the Sierra Silver Mine in Wallace and the Crystal Gold Mine near Kellogg. Miners are honored at the Sunshine Mine Disaster Memorial, also in Kellogg. Speaking of “industrious,” you can even tour an old brothel, preserved as the Oasis Bordello Museum in Wallace. Be sure to pack your outdoor gear—this is prime country for backpacking, cycling and mountain biking, rafting, and more. The Route of the Hiawatha rail-trail is a must. Pedaling is pure pleasure as you meander along the North Fork of the St. Joe, through railroad tunnels, over trestle bridges, and past never-ending waterfalls. When the flurries fly, find your winter bliss at Lookout Pass or Silver Mountain.

WORLEY/PLUMMER/ HARRISON

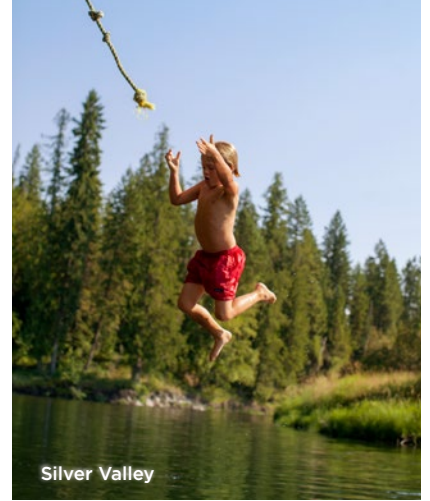

South of Lake Coeur d'Alene is the Coeur d'Alene Reservation, and the towns of Worley and Plummer. Golden fields of wheat and barley stretch for miles in every direction, and the Coeur d'Alene Casino and its popular Circling Raven Golf Club invite you to try your luck on the slots and on the course. The nearby Heyburn State Park is awe-inspiring, a mix of centuries-old ponderosa pines, colorful wildflowers, three lakes, and habitat for blue heron, bald eagles, and moose. At the southern end of Lake Coeur d'Alene sits Harrison, a quiet resort town perfect for those pedaling the western end of the Trail of the Coeur d'Alenes or looking for a laid-back place to play. Harrison feels just as magical during December's Winterfest, when downtown sparkles with holiday lights, carolers, and a visit from Santa.

ST. MARIES

This sleepy lumber town along the Coeur d'Alene Scenic Byway is one of those best-kept secrets among serious sportspeople. Its northern boundary, the St. Joe River, happens to be one of Idaho's 10 blue-ribbon wild trout streams, and the surrounding forests offer some of the West's finest elk hunting. Rafting and floating are plentiful here, too, as are hiking, four-wheeling, and snowmobiling in and around nearby public lands. If you're lucky, you might find a rare star garnet at the Emerald Creek Garnet Area or an old logging camp along Marble Creek Trail.

CATALDO

As you approach the Mission of the Sacred Heart, you can feel why this majestic spot was chosen to celebrate and give thanks. Set gracefully on a knoll overlooking the Coeur d'Alene River, Idaho's oldest standing building takes you back to the 1840s, when local tribe members first heard the spiritual teachings of “Black Robes”—Jesuit missionaries led by Father De Smet. The Coeur d'Alene Tribe and the missionaries built the mission side by side in the early 1850s with few tools and no nails. The site is now protected as part of the Coeur d'Alenes Old Mission State Park, where you can also explore the Parish House and two cemeteries. An exhibit in the visitors' center reveals the long-lasting effects of this encounter on the Coeur d'Alene and Salish Tribes.

RECREATION

Water Play

› At and around Priest, Pend Oreille, and Coeur d'Alene Lakes, you'll find plenty of scenic spots for swimming, paddleboarding, boating, relaxed cruising, jet-skiing, and fishing. Local outfitters like A Day on the Lake in Sandpoint, Kayak Coeur d'Alene, and River Odysseys West—named 2012's Top Tour Operator by Travel & Leisure—are ready to deliver rafting and kayaking adventures.

› Have a super-splashy, kid-friendly time at Boulder Beach Water Park at Silverwood Theme Park and Raptor Reef, an indoor waterpark in Hayden Lake.

Trails & Zips

› Pedal the Route of the Hiawatha, a converted rail-trail that takes you 15 miles oneway through tunnels and over trestle bridges along the scenic St. Joe River. Shuttles are available.

› Take a few days to ride the 72-mile paved Trail of the Coeur d'Alenes, stretching from the mountain town of Mullan near the Montana border into Plummer.

› Head up to Silver Mountain in Kellogg or Schweitzer Mountain in Sandpoint for rugged, lift-served zip lining and mountain biking.

› Soar 300 feet above Wallace's mountainous terrain with Silver Streak Zipline Tours.

Golf

› Hit the greens at the prestigious Coeur d'Alene Resort, with its famous floating green, and the Circling Raven near Worley, a rising star on the national golf circuit.

Wildlife

› Take a drive to Wolf Lodge Bay, a bald eagle wintering ground just seven miles from Coeur d'Alene. During Eagle Watch Week, between Christmas and New Year's Day, experts are on hand to help you spot some of the 300 bald eagles nesting there.

› Head north to the 2,774-acre Kootenai National Wildlife Refuge near Bonners Ferry to view moose, songbirds, and waterfowl.

Snow Sports

› Get your high-tech woolies on for skiing and snowmobiling at and near Schweitzer Mountain, Silver Mountain, or Lookout Pass. Lookout Pass is famous for its Free Ski School, introducing kids 6-17 to the basics of skiing and boarding. If you've got what it takes to go steep, try Selkirk Powder Company's cat skiing runs.
