

GIVE IN TO NATURAL ATTRACTIONS

Traveling in southwest Idaho is like packing lots of super-fun vacations into one. Within a few hours' drive, you can hike through evergreen forests to remote alpine lakes or spy antelope roaming the high-country desert—or in just minutes, move from bustling city life to farmlands and fruit orchards. It's the kind of place where you start your morning with a pint of local berries from a downtown farmers market, hit the trails or the whitewater, and head back in plenty of time to grab a bite and watch a play. Definitely seek out local Idaho food and wines—both are receiving the same high acclaim that the region's recreational offerings have long enjoyed. In fact, southwest Idaho has the distinction of being named an American Viticultural Area for its excellent grape-growing conditions—so put a winery tour on your short list. Plan to spend time in Boise, Idaho's capital city, for a lively arts and culture scene, river and foothills fun, and Boise State University games. Boise's also a central hub for day trips to scenic spots like McCall, Cascade, and Idaho City to the north—and Silver City, sand dunes, and the world's most dense concentration of nesting birds of prey just to the south.

VALLEY/ADAMS COUNTIES

When one of the main roads through an entire region is a national scenic byway, you know you're somewhere special. That's the case here, where Idaho 55 doubles as the Payette River Scenic Byway, a route that takes you past dramatic whitewater, farmland, and meadows, and through high-walled, forested canyons. Its northern tip begins in New Meadows, where—just two miles north along Route 95—you can stand on the 45th parallel halfway between the North Pole and the equator. While you're here, tee off at MeadowCreek Golf Resort, where the course winds you through meadows and towering pines and delivers a view of Granite Mountain to the northeast. Zims Hot Springs is a favorite destination for locals—so pre- or post-touring, relax in the 104° soaking tub and let the kids splash away in the slightly cooler Olympic-size pool.

At New Meadows, you'll hit a fork in the road, and each way leads to awesome adventures. (We recommend trying both!) If you take US 95 south, you'll roll into the small town of Cambridge, the southern gateway to Hells Canyon, North America's deepest river gorge. From Cambridge, go west on Idaho 71 and connect with the 22-mile Hells Canyon Scenic Byway for one of the most stunning drives around. You'll curve along the Snake River, below picturesque cliffs, atop high desert ridges, and past Oxbow and Hells Canyon Reservoirs before arriving at Hells Canyon Dam. If you're up for action, book a rafting or jet boat trip with any of the area's experienced outfitters.

Should you choose Idaho 55 from New Meadows, you'll be welcomed by the mountain resort town of McCall. McCall sits quietly on the shores of Payette Lake, and it's one of those casual places you love to visit all year round. In summer, you can water and Jet Ski, canoe, kayak, and sail the lake, or just hang out and play on one of the city's sandy beaches. Keep an eye out for resident lake monster Sharlie when you take a scenic jaunt with Payette Lake Cruises; the sunset cruise is a pretty spectacular way to spend an evening. Since you're on vacation, treat yourself to a sunny afternoon on the greens—you've got your choice of the manicured Whitetail Club, the challenging Jug Mountain Ranch, and the 27-hole McCall Golf Club. If you like to camp, reserve a spot or cabin at Ponderosa State Park and play the days away within its 1,500 acres. The park has a beach and boat launch area, and you can rent kayaks to paddle Payette Lake.

Mid-July, head to the tiny nearby town of Roseberry for its annual Summer Music Festival—two days of happy music on a general store lawn. In the July/August time frame, enjoy classical chamber music and jazz concerts during McCall’s SummerFest. Get good vibes at Brundage in August, when regional musicians perform at the upbeat two-day Idaho-Down.

In winter, head to Brundage Mountain Resort for tons of ski and snowboard terrain. At the Activity Barn, Brundage’s tubing hill just south of McCall, you and your kids can race down 700 feet of pure awesome; they might also enjoy the smaller, T-bar-served Little Ski Hill off Idaho 55 a few miles from town. If you’ve got strong ankles, lace up for some laps around the rink at the Manchester Ice and Event Centre in downtown McCall, open year-round. And, no matter what, bundle up for McCall’s Winter Carnival in late January, a fun week of snow sculptures, snow bike races, tastings, and lots of family fun.

South of McCall is Lake Cascade, another spot popular among the boating, fishing, and camping set. Claim a camp spot along the shore within Lake Cascade State Park and head out for a day on the water. Don’t miss Kelly’s Whitewater Park, just south of Cascade on the North Fork of the Payette, to kayak, surf, and even paddleboard—or take it easy in a tube or canoe.

If you’re feeling extra adventurous, take a zip-line tour high above Tamarack Resort, on the west side of Lake Cascade near the small town of Donnelly. Extend your adventure with a mountain bike ride on Tamarack’s trails, which include 12 miles of lift-serviced singletrack. You’ll definitely deserve a long mineral-rich soak under the pines at Gold Fork Hot Springs.

Come winter, stir it up in the open meadows near the southern end of Cascade Reservoir, some of the best snowmobiling country around. Hit Tamarack for a relaxed alpine, cross-country, or snowshoe experience.

IDAHO CITY

Idaho City is a classic Old West town. Back in its heyday—gold was discovered here in 1862—it was actually the Pacific Northwest’s biggest city, home to thousands of miners and a center of regional commerce. You’ll be able to imagine what mining life was like here as you walk its wooden sidewalks past Idaho’s first newspaper building, an old jail, a general store, and other rustic buildings. Explore artifacts in the Boise Basin Museum, browse antique stores, and relax with a huckleberry ice cream cone on the boardwalk or a cold beverage in a saloon right out of the 1860s.

BOISE

Until recently, Boise’s been one of the West’s best-kept secrets. Now, the City of Trees is recognized on all the “Top Cities” lists. For its beautiful scenery, unbeatable outdoor recreation, and friendly inhabitants, Boise certainly deserves all its newfound fame.

Boise's vibrant downtown spans a few small sections—the main historic district that runs along Main and Idaho Streets; BoDo, a newer area with big-name retailers; and the Basque Block, a charming street that highlights Idaho's Basque heritage. The Linen District on the western end of downtown is worth the walk for the popular Big City Coffee and the Modern Hotel, where a crowd gathers on summer evenings for cocktails and music on the patio. The Boise State University campus is a short walk from downtown, and trust us, you will know when it's game day here—the Broncos have some of the most loyal fans ever. The university is also a hub for the performing arts; its Morrison Center is home base for the Boise Philharmonic, Ballet Idaho, and Opera Idaho.

As you walk downtown, feel free to go in the Idaho State Capitol Building to view its state history exhibits. You can easily walk to many of Boise's museums and culturally significant sites from downtown, including the Boise Art Museum, the Idaho Historical Museum, and the Idaho Black History Museum, all located in Julia Davis Park. The Idaho Anne Frank Human Rights Memorial is also close by, a tranquil space on the Boise River that encourages discussion and reflection. Visit the Basque Museum and Cultural Center to learn about the colorful history of the Basques in Idaho. See the graceful mansions built by the city's early residents along Warm Springs Avenue on your way to the Idaho Botanical Garden and the Old Idaho Penitentiary.

During spring, summer, and fall, life is lived outside—and much of that happens on or near the Boise River. This gem winds through the city, and you can access it in many of the riverfront parks; walk, jog, and bike along its banks on the 25-mile greenbelt; and fish its waters for rainbow trout. It's tradition to float the river on a hot day, so head to Barber Park to rent a raft that will take you on a leisurely trip downriver to the Ann Morrison Park take-out. Eagle Island State Park, 11 miles west of downtown, is another fun summer spot, with a beach, a water slide, and plenty of shade for picnicking; each May, it's also the site of the Eagle Island Experience, a weekend of local music, belly dancing, and HulaHooping.

In the summer, there's really no such thing as downtime in Boise. You can take in minor-league baseball games, rodeos, and road-bike races (much of Boise turns out to cheer on the Twilight Criterium racers who wind through downtown streets at breakneck speeds). Pick up produce and handmade wares at Boise's two farmers markets on Saturday mornings, and join locals for music at Alive After Five on Wednesday evenings. Head to nearby Horseshoe Bend (north on scenic Highway 55) for zip-line adventures and a ride on the historic Thunder Mountain Railroad. Throughout the year, the Boise area hosts an eclectic slate of entertainment, like March's indie Treefort Music Fest, a summer concert series at the Idaho Botanical Garden, and outdoor performances by the Idaho Shakespeare Festival (wine and picnics encouraged). In September, hundreds of northwestern artisans set up shop for Art in the Park at Julia Davis Park and, on the first Thursday of each month, downtown galleries and shops keep their doors open late for special events and extra browsing time.

If you love the stage, catch productions by the Boise Contemporary Theater, Knock 'em Dead Dinner Theatre, Boise Little Theater, Alley Repertory Theatre, or Boise State's Theatre Arts Department.

In winter, hit Bogus Basin, the local ski hill that's only 15 miles from downtown, or see what's on the schedule for our professional hockey and basketball teams. If you're visiting in early winter, prepare to be dazzled at Winter Garden Aglow, when the Idaho Botanical Garden strings more than 250,000 lights among its trees and gardens.

Wildlife watchers will enjoy the Peregrine Fund's World Center for Birds of Prey's interpretive displays and talks. In spring, head south to the Morley Nelson Snake River Birds of Prey National Conservation Area to see winged predators high above the Snake River. Anytime, stop at the Idaho Fish and Game MK Nature Center to see fish and waterfowl species in their natural habitats. This is a fun spot for kids—especially if they spot a raccoon or fawn.

When you're ready to nosh, you'll find tons of downtown eateries, from Bacon, a cozy breakfast and lunch spot, to casual favorites like Bittercreek, Fork, and Bardenay. The modern State & Lemp pairs northwestern foods and wines on its prix fixe menu, and Chandler's Steakhouse and Ruth's Chris Steak House (in the new Zion's Bank building) offer fine steaks and seafood. Of course, you'll want to try Basque cuisine at one of Boise's authentic restaurants: Leku Ona, Bar Gernika, or the Basque Market. Or explore Boise's international delicacies on Orchard Street; a true adventure of flavor.

If you're overnighing in Boise, you have many lodging options right in the heart of downtown. You'll feel immediately at home at the Boise Guest House and the Idaho Heritage Inn—a charming B&B—as well as at the stylish Hotel 43 and the retro Modern Hotel.

GARDEN VALLEY/LOWMAN

Garden Valley and Lowman are small communities much loved by the hikers, bikers, kayakers, and rafters who play in the area. They both sit along the Wildlife Canyon Scenic Byway, a lovely ride through pastoral lands and the steep canyon carved by the South Fork of the Payette. In summer months, rent a riverside cabin, soak in the area's many hot springs, and attend a musical at Starlight Mountain Theater. In winter, look for elk herds near the Danskin river access.

Silver City

WESTERN BOISE VALLEY

Tour the broad valley west of Boise and you'll find yourself in a rich agricultural region. Growers produce cherries, apples, and other fruits in the area's many orchards, plus veggies, hops, and wine grapes. You can taste what's fresh at farmers markets in the cities of Nampa, Caldwell, and Kuna, and at roadside produce stands. The small town of Emmett holds its annual Cherry Festival in June, and you can pick your own fragrant bouquets during the Lavender Festival each July. Spend an afternoon touring the region's wineries to taste why they're earning so much national attention.

Meridian and Eagle are fast-growing neighbors of Boise, each with family-friendly neighborhoods and great golf courses. If you're here with kids, spend a day splashing at Roaring Springs Water Park in Meridian and playing mini golf at the adjacent Wahooz Family Fun Zone. Catch a movie, bowl, or shop at The Village at Meridian. For super speed, check out the Firebird Raceway, and for rides, music, and games, have a blast at the Western Idaho State Fair in August. If you like things truly wild, walk the nature trails at Deer Flat Wildlife Refuge at Lake Lowell west of Nampa to observe migrating waterfowl and songbirds.

Bruneau Dunes

Caldwell and Nampa both celebrate summer with boot-stompin' fun, when professional cowboys come to town to compete in rodeos. Nampa's Snake River Stampede happens in July, and the Caldwell Night Rodeo gets going in August. If you enjoy history, visit the Warhawk Air Museum in Nampa to see vintage World War II planes and artifacts.

In June, see musicians pluck and bow their hearts out at the National Oldtime Fiddlers' Contest in the small town of Weiser. The event, more than 60 years young, is a laid-back, feel-good outing for all ages.

ELMORE COUNTY

Climb, slide, laugh (and repeat) as you attempt to make it 470 feet uphill at Bruneau Dunes State Park, located 18 miles west of Mountain Home. If that doesn't sound fun, there's still lots to do here, like camping, swimming, fishing, and — on Friday and Saturday nights — star gazing at the observatory. Outside the park along Hot Springs Road, gaze down into the impressive 1,200-foot-deep Bruneau Canyon. Two area reservoirs — CJ Strike and Anderson Ranch Dam — promise an adventurous day of fishing, boating, and swimming. You can camp at CJ Strike, and in winter, snowmobile and kite board the open country and rolling hills around Anderson Ranch Dam. A detour at Glens Ferry brings you to Three Island Crossing State Park, located near a significant Oregon Trail river crossing. The on-site Oregon Trail History and Education Center highlights stories from the largest mass migration in American history and the native tribes who inhabited the area at the time. Stop by the nearby Carmela Winery for a tasting, and spend some downtime on the Vineyard Greens Golf Course.

OWYHEE COUNTY

High desert and deep river gorges form the magnificent landscape of Owyhee County. Experience these colorful canyonlands up close by booking a river trip on the Bruneau or Owyhee Rivers during spring runoff — when rapids are at their peak and wildflowers are in full bloom. Set aside some time to get to and explore the historic mining town of Silver City high in the Owyhee Mountains. Take a relaxed stroll to its pioneer cemetery, the old Masonic Hall, and other original structures, then grab lunch or dinner at the old Idaho Hotel, built in 1863. If you plan ahead, you can actually still stay at the hotel! (Before you drive to Silver City, check road conditions; high-clearance vehicles are recommended year-round.) Further east, near Grandview, stop at Lawson's Emu-Z-Um, a former emu ranch that now houses authentic replicas of an 1860s-era town, Native American artifacts, and the Silver City Schoolhouse Museum. Pack a swimsuit so you and the kids can splash and soak in the indoor mineral pool at Givens Hot Springs — and if you bring a tent, too, there's plenty of room to camp. In spring, look for nesting hawks, owls, and eagles high up in the cliffs at the Morley Nelson Snake River Birds of Prey National Conservation Area. You can also hike, bike, and camp in the area's 485,000 acres.

RECREATION

Water Play

› Take your pick of plentiful waters—Payette Lake and Cascade, Lucky Peak, Arrowrock, and Anderson Ranch Reservoirs—for boating, fishing, canoeing, and Jet Ski adventures. For a quiet backcountry experience, hike to the upper reaches of the Payette and Boise National Forests to enjoy a rugged alpine lake all to yourself.

› Book a scenic whitewater trip on one of the forks of the Payette River, or surf and practice your tricks at two man-made parks: Kelly's Whitewater Park near Cascade or Boise River Park near Whitewater Park Boulevard in Boise. In the heat of summer, float the Boise River from Barber Park to Ann Morrison Park.

Sports

› Batter, batter, swing—right into Boise's many sports venues for fierce loyalty, pro talent, and cold beer. A Boise Hawks baseball game at Memorial Stadium in nearby Garden City is a rite of summer. In fall and winter, grab seats courtside as the Idaho Stampede, our NBA development team, brings pro baller action to CenturyLink Arena in downtown Boise. Feel a cold blast of adrenaline when you cheer on the Steelheads hockey team, which takes its fight to the ice at CenturyLink. If you're in town in June, join Boiseans as they root for the triathletes competing in the IRONMAN 70.3. You've probably heard about Boise State's blue turf and Broncos football team, so see what the fuss is all about at a home game.

Trails & Zips

› Head for the hills—on foot or in the saddle—when you're in Boise. The city's foothills frame the northern edge of town and are full of great hiking and mountain biking trails accessible from parks and many neighborhoods. For steeper terrain, head to Bogus Basin, Brundage, or Tamarack Resorts—all open year-round for biking, hiking, and snow sports. For an easy, kid-friendly hike, try the exercise trail around the airport in Idaho City; they'll love the trees, water, and possibility of an ice-cream cone reward in town afterward.

› Take a walk you won't soon forget at Walter's Ferry, where an unusual nature trail winds through an eclectic assortment of birdhouses, quotations, statues, spiritual symbols, and even a flock of white peacocks. The kids will think this is great. Really.

› If you're ever going to zip, you should do it here, above meadows, lakes, and ponderosa pine forests. Try Tamarack Canopy Zipline Tour near Donnelly—it's been voted a Top 10 tour by USA Today. If you're closer to Horseshoe Bend, Zip Idaho will have you up above the treeline in no time.
