

GIVE IN TO NATURAL ATTRACTIONS

Traveling in southwest Idaho is like packing lots of super-fun vacations into one. You can hike through evergreen forests to remote alpine lakes or spy antelope roaming the high-country desert—or in just minutes, move from bustling city life to farmlands and fruit orchards. It's the kind of place where you start your morning with a pint of local berries from a downtown farmers market, hit the trails or the whitewater, and head back in plenty of time to grab a bite and watch a Shakespeare performance. Definitely seek out local Idaho food and wines—both are receiving the same high acclaim that the region's recreational offerings have long enjoyed. In fact, southwest Idaho's ideal grape-growing conditions have led to the designation of two American Viticultural Areas—so put a winery tour on your short list. Plan to spend time in Boise, Idaho's capital city, for a lively arts and culture scene, river and foothills fun, and Boise State University games. Boise's also a central hub for day trips to scenic spots like McCall, Cascade, and Idaho City to the north—and Silver City, sand dunes, and the world's most dense concentration of nesting birds of prey just to the south.

VALLEY & ADAMS COUNTY

When one of the main roads through an entire region is a national scenic byway, you know you're somewhere special. That's the case here, where Idaho State Highway 55 doubles as the Payette River Scenic Byway, a route that takes you past dramatic whitewater, farmland, and meadows and through high-walled, forested canyons. Its northern tip begins in New Meadows, where—just two miles north along Route 95—you can stand on the 45th parallel halfway between the North Pole and the equator. While you're here, tee off at MeadowCreek Golf Resort, where the course winds through meadows and towering pines and delivers a view of Granite Mountain to the northeast. Zims Hot Springs is a favorite destination for locals—relax in the 104-degree soaking tub, and let the kids splash away in the slightly cooler Olympic-size pool.

At New Meadows, you'll hit a fork in the road, and each way leads to awesome adventures. (We recommend trying both!) If you take US 95 south, you'll roll into the small town of Cambridge, the southern gateway to Hells Canyon, North America's deepest river gorge. From Cambridge, go west on Highway 71 and connect with the 22-mile Hells Canyon Scenic Byway for one of the most stunning drives around. You'll curve along the Snake River, below picturesque cliffs, atop high desert ridges, and past Oxbow and Hells Canyon reservoirs before arriving at Hells Canyon Dam. If you're up for action, book a rafting or jet boat trip with an experienced outfitter.

Should you choose Idaho State Highway 55 from New Meadows, you'll be welcomed by the mountain resort town of McCall. McCall sits quietly on the shores of Payette Lake, and it's one of those casual places you love to visit all year round. In summer, you can water and jet ski, canoe, kayak, and sail the lake, or just hang out and play on one of the city's sandy beaches. Keep an eye out for resident lake monster Sharlie when you take a scenic jaunt with McCall Lake Cruises; the sunset cruise is a pretty spectacular way to spend an evening. Since you're on vacation, treat yourself to a sunny afternoon on the greens—you've got your choice of the challenging Jug Mountain Ranch course, three scenic courses at the McCall Golf Club, and for guests of Shore Lodge, the Whitetail Club. If you like to camp, reserve a spot or cabin at Ponderosa State Park and play the days away within its 1,500 acres. The park has a beach and boat launch area, and you can rent kayaks to paddle Payette Lake. End your afternoon with mouthwatering, mountain-sized scoops from Ice Cream Alley downtown.

Mid-July, head to the tiny nearby town of Roseberry for its annual Summer Music Festival—two days of happy music on a general-store lawn. In the July-August time frame, enjoy classical chamber music and jazz concerts during McCall's SummerFest.

In winter, hit Brundage Mountain Resort's 1,500 acres of ski and snowboard terrain. At the Activity Barn, Brundage's tubing hill just south of McCall, you and your kids can race down 700 feet of pure awesome. They might also enjoy the smaller, T-bar-served Little Ski Hill, off Idaho State Highway 55 a few miles from town. If you've got strong ankles, lace up for some laps around the rink at the Manchester Ice and Event Centre in downtown McCall, open year-round. And, no matter what, bundle up for McCall's Winter Carnival in late January and early February, a fun week of snow sculptures, snow bike races, and lots of family fun.

South of McCall is Lake Cascade, a spot popular among boating, fishing, and camping fans. Claim a site along the shore within Lake Cascade State Park, and head out for a day on the water. Visit Kelly's Whitewater Park, just south of Cascade, to spend the day kayaking or paddleboarding.

If you're feeling extra adventurous, take a zip-line tour high above Tamarack Resort, on the west side of Lake Cascade near the small town of Donnelly. Up the adrenaline by riding the single-track or downhill trails in Tamarack's Bike Park, which is lift-served on weekends. You'll definitely deserve a long, mineral-rich soak under the pines at Gold Fork Hot Springs.

Come winter, stir it up in the open meadows near the southern end of Cascade Reservoir, with some of the best snowmobiling around, or hit Tamarack Resort for a relaxed alpine, cross-country, or snowshoe experience.

IDAHO CITY

Idaho City is a classic Old West town. Back in its heyday—gold was discovered here in 1862—it was actually the Pacific Northwest's biggest city, home to thousands of miners and a center of regional commerce. You'll be able to imagine what mining life was like here as you walk its wooden sidewalks past Idaho's first newspaper building, an old jail, a general store, and other rustic buildings. Explore artifacts in the Boise Basin Museum, browse antique stores, and relax with a huckleberry ice cream cone or a cold beverage in a saloon right out of the 1860s.

BOISE

Boise used to be one of the West's best-kept secrets—now, it seems to be a permanent fixture on "Best Cities" lists. You'll find a mix of beautiful scenery, easily accessible outdoor recreation, abundant culture, and friendly residents.

Boise's historic buildings are a beautiful backdrop for downtown boutiques, eclectic eateries, breweries, home and gift shops, and more. Enjoy outdoor dining along vibrant Eighth Street, shop in BoDo, and explore the Basque Block, a charming street that highlights Idaho's Basque heritage. The Linen District on the western end of downtown is worth the walk for the popular Big City Coffee and the Modern Hotel, where a crowd gathers on summer evenings for cocktails and music on the patio. The Boise State University campus is close to downtown, and trust us, you'll know when it's game day here when you spot fans decked out in blue and orange, the colors of the Boise State Broncos. The university is also a hub for the performing arts; its Morrison Center is home base for the Boise Philharmonic and Ballet Idaho.

As you walk downtown, feel free to tour the Idaho State Capitol Building and view its state history exhibits. You can easily walk to many of Boise's museums and culturally significant sites from downtown, including the Boise Art Museum and the Idaho Black History Museum, both located in Julia Davis Park. (The Idaho State Museum is scheduled to open in the summer of 2018 with exciting renovations and new interactive exhibits. A temporary location is open to visitors at 214 Broadway Avenue.) The Idaho Anne Frank Human Rights Memorial is also close by, a tranquil space on the Boise River that encourages discussion and reflection. Visit the Basque Museum and Cultural Center to learn about the colorful history of the Basques in Idaho. See the graceful mansions built by the city's early residents along Warm Springs Avenue on your way to the Idaho Botanical Garden and the Old Idaho Penitentiary.

During spring, summer, and fall, life is lived outside—and much of that happens on or near the Boise River. This gem winds through the city, and you can access it in many of the riverfront parks; walk, jog, and bike along its banks on the 25-mile Greenbelt; and fish its waters for rainbow trout. It's tradition to float the river on a hot day, so head to Barber Park to rent a raft that will take you on a leisurely trip downriver to the Ann Morrison Park takeout. Bring your own gear, and kayak or surf the waves at the Boise Whitewater Park on the west end of town. Eagle Island State Park, 11 miles west of downtown, is another fun summer spot, with a beach, a water slide, and plenty of shade for picnicking.

In the summer, there's really no such thing as downtime in Boise. You can take in minor league baseball games, rodeos, and the Twilight Criterium road-bike races. Pick up produce and handmade wares at Boise's two farmers markets on Saturday mornings, and join locals for music at Alive After Five on Wednesday evenings. Don't miss the twisting, turning, downhill thrills of the Mountain Coaster and other summer fun at Bogus Basin Mountain Recreation Area, just north of town.

Throughout the year, the Boise area hosts an eclectic slate of entertainment: the Treefort Music Fest in March, the Idaho Botanical Garden's summer concert series, and outdoor performances by the Idaho Shakespeare Festival (wine and picnics encouraged). In September, hundreds of northwestern artisans set up shop for Art in the Park at Julia Davis Park, and in winter, Opera Idaho captivates audiences from its home base at the historic Egyptian Theatre. The first Thursday of each month, downtown galleries and shops keep their doors open late for special events and extra browsing time.

If you love the stage, catch productions by the Boise Contemporary Theater, Boise Little Theater, Alley Repertory Theater, or Boise State's Theatre Arts Department.

Downtown Boise

In winter, ski, snowshoe, tube, or ride the Mountain Coaster at Bogus Basin, the local ski hill that's only 15 miles from downtown, or watch the Idaho Steelheads tear up the ice at a pro hockey game. If you're visiting during the holidays, prepare to be dazzled at Winter Garden aGlow, when the Idaho Botanical Garden strings more than 380,000 lights among its trees and gardens.

Wildlife watchers will enjoy the interpretative displays and talks of the Peregrine Fund's World Center for Birds of Prey. Its Condor Cliffs is one of the only places in the U.S. outside of California to view condors. In spring, head south to the Morley Nelson Snake River Birds of Prey National Conservation Area to see winged predators soar high above the Snake River. Explore the Idaho Fish and Game MK Nature Center year-round to see fish (including sturgeon!) and waterfowl in their natural habitats. This is an especially fun spot for kids.

When you're ready to nosh, you'll find tons of downtown eateries, from Bacon, a cozy all-day bistro, to casual favorites like Bittercreek, Fork, and Bardenay. The modern State & Lemp pairs northwestern foods and wines on its prix fixe menu; Chandler's offers fine steaks and seafood; and Barbacoa serves up gourmet appetizers and eclectic fine dining. Of course, you'll want to try Basque cuisine at one of Boise's authentic restaurants: Leku Ona, Bar Gernika, or the Basque Market.

If you're overnighting in Boise, you have many lodging options in the heart of downtown. You'll feel immediately at home at the Boise Guest House, the stylish Hotel 43, the retro Modern Hotel, or the brand-new Inn at 500 Capitol.

GARDEN VALLEY/LOWMAN

Garden Valley and Lowman are small communities much loved by the hikers, bikers, kayakers, and rafters who play in the area. They both sit along the Wildlife Canyon Scenic Byway, a lovely ride through pastoral lands and the steep canyon carved by the South Fork of the Payette River. In summer months, rent a riverside cabin, soak in the area's many hot springs, and attend a musical at Starlight Mountain Theatre. In winter, look for elk herds near the Danskin river access.

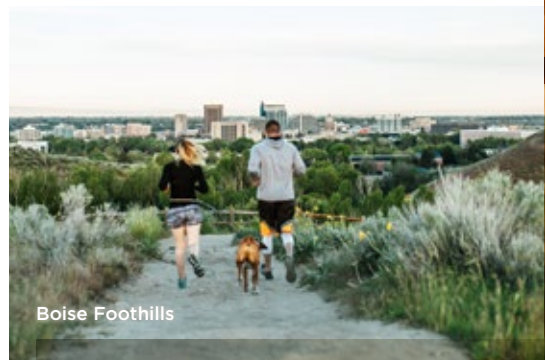

Payette Lake

WESTERN BOISE VALLEY

Tour the broad valley west of Boise, and you'll find yourself in a rich agricultural region. Growers produce cherries, apples, and other fruits in the area's many orchards, plus veggies, hops, and wine grapes. You can taste what's fresh at farmers markets in the cities of Nampa, Caldwell, and Kuna and at roadside produce stands. The small town of Emmett holds its annual Cherry Festival in June, and you can pick your own fragrant bouquets during the Lavender Festival each July. Spend an afternoon touring the region's wineries to taste why they're enjoying so much national attention.

Meridian and Eagle are fast-growing neighbors of Boise, each with family-friendly neighborhoods, plentiful dining choices, and abundant shopping. If you're here with kids, spend a day splashing at Roaring Springs Water Park in Meridian and playing mini golf at the adjacent Wahooz Family Fun Zone. Catch a movie, bowl, or shop at The Village at Meridian. For super speed, check out the Meridian Speedway or Firebird Raceway in Star. For rides, music, and games, have a blast at the Western Idaho Fair in August. If you like things truly wild, walk the nature trails at Deer Flat Wildlife Refuge at Lake Lowell, west of Nampa, to observe migrating waterfowl and songbirds.

Caldwell and Nampa both celebrate summer with boot-stompin' fun, when professional cowboys come to town to compete in rodeos. Nampa's Snake River Stampede happens in July, and the Caldwell Night Rodeo gets going in August. If you enjoy history, visit the Warhawk Air Museum in Nampa to see vintage World War II planes and artifacts.

In June, see musicians pluck and bow their hearts out at the National Oldtime Fiddlers' Contest in the small town of Weiser. The event, more than 60 years young, is a laid-back, feel-good outing for all ages.

ELMORE COUNTY

Climb, slide, laugh (and repeat) as you attempt to make it 470 feet uphill at Bruneau Dunes State Park, located 18 miles west of Mountain Home. If that doesn't sound fun, there's still lots to do here, like camping, sandboarding, fishing, and—on Friday and Saturday nights—stargazing at the observatory. Outside the park along Hot Springs Road, gaze down into the impressive 1,200-foot-deep Bruneau Canyon. Two area reservoirs—CJ Strike and Anderson Ranch Dam—promise an adventurous day of fishing, boating, and swimming. You can camp at CJ Strike, and in winter, snowmobile and kiteboard the open country and rolling hills around Anderson Ranch Dam. A detour at Glens Ferry brings you to Three Island Crossing State Park, the site of a significant Oregon Trail river crossing. The on-site Oregon Trail History and Education Center highlights stories from the largest mass migration in American history and the native tribes who inhabited the area at the time. Stop by the nearby Crossings Winery for a tasting, and spend some downtime on the Vineyard Greens Golf Course.

OWYHEE COUNTY

High desert and deep river gorges form the magnificent landscape of Owyhee County. Experience these colorful canyonlands up close by booking a river trip on the Bruneau or Owyhee rivers during spring runoff—when rapids are at their peak and wildflowers are in full bloom. Set aside some time to get to and explore the historic mining town of Silver City high in the Owyhee Mountains. Take a relaxed stroll to its pioneer cemetery, the old Masonic Hall, and other original structures, and then grab lunch or dinner at the old Idaho Hotel, built in 1863. If you plan ahead, you can actually still stay at the hotel! (Before you drive to Silver City, check road conditions; high-clearance vehicles are recommended year-round.) Further east, near Grandview, stop at Lawson's Emu-Z-Um, a former emu ranch that now houses authentic replicas of an 1860s-era town, Native American artifacts, and the Silver City Schoolhouse Museum. Pack a swimsuit so you and the kids can splash and soak in the indoor mineral pool at Givens Hot Springs—and if you bring a tent too, there's plenty of room to camp. In spring, look for nesting hawks, owls, and eagles high up in the cliffs at the Morley Nelson Snake River Birds of Prey National Conservation Area. You can also hike, bike, and camp in the area's 485,000 acres.

RECREATION

Water Play

› Take your pick of plentiful waters—Payette and Cascade Lakes, Lucky Peak, Arrowrock, and Anderson Ranch reservoirs—for boating, fishing, canoeing, and jet-skiing adventures. For a quiet backcountry experience, hike to the upper reaches of the Payette and Boise National Forests to enjoy a rugged alpine lake all to yourself.

› Book a scenic whitewater trip on one of the forks of the Payette River, or surf and practice your tricks at two man-made wave parks: Kelly's Whitewater Park near Cascade or Boise Whitewater Park near downtown Boise. In the heat of summer, float the Boise River from Barber Park to Ann Morrison Park.

Sports

› Batter, batter, swing—right into Boise's many sports venues for fierce loyalty, pro talent, and cold beer. A Boise Hawks baseball game at Memorial Stadium in nearby Garden City is a rite of summer. In fall and winter, feel a cold blast of adrenaline when you cheer on the Idaho Steelheads hockey team, which takes its fight to the ice at CenturyLink Arena. You've probably heard about Boise State's blue turf and Broncos football team, so see what the fuss is all about at a home game.

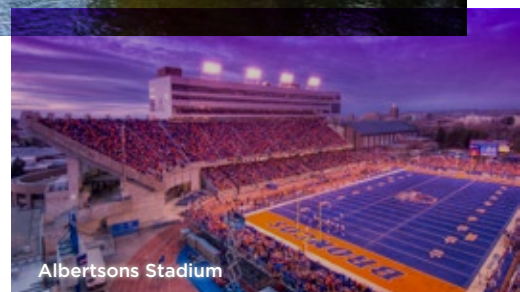

Trails & Zips

› Head for the hills—on foot or in the saddle—when you're in Boise. The city's foothills frame the northern edge of town and are full of great hiking and mountain biking trails accessible from parks and many neighborhoods. For steeper terrain, head to Bogus Basin, Brundage, or Tamarack Resorts—all open year-round for biking, hiking, and snow sports.

› For an easy, kid-friendly hike, try the exercise trail around the airport in Idaho City; they'll love the trees, water, and possibility of an ice cream cone reward in town afterward.

› Take a walk you won't soon forget at Walter's Ferry, where an unusual nature trail winds through an eclectic assortment of birdhouses, statues, spiritual symbols, and a flock of white peacocks.

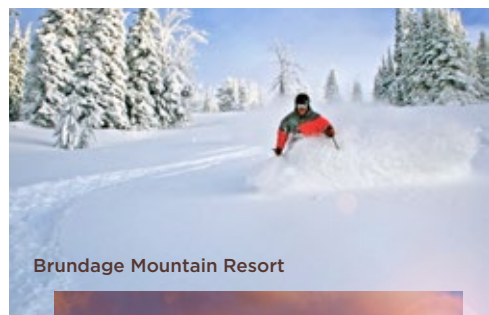

› If you're ever going to zip, you should do it here, above meadows, lakes, and ponderosa pine forests. Try Tamarack Canopy Zipline Tour near Donnelly—it's been voted a Top 10 tour by USA Today. If you're closer to Horseshoe Bend, Zip Idaho will have you up above the tree line in no time.
